

The Problem

- 2/3 of major projects fail to meet one or more business objectives.
- Leads to unfinished projects, flawed project choices, and lost opportunity costs for the project you could have done.
- Unidentified assumptions and risks leading to project failure.
- Your ability to positively impact your project's final cost decreases rapidly over the project lifecycle.

STRENGTHS* AND *POTENTIAL PITFALLS

Any shop can change the oil in your car, but a master mechanic can spot other potential problems through a simple evaluation of the sound your car makes when it starts or the splatter of oil in the engine. These are the problems that might go unnoticed by the inexperienced.

The same is true with project diagnostics!
